ROOSEVELT ORDERS MINE STRIKERS BACK TO WORK

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt, as commander-in-chief of the armed forces, today directed all striking anthracite coal miners to go back to work at once.

He said that if they failed to comply with his directive in 48 hours, the government would take the necessary steps to protect the security of the nation against a strike which comes at a time of a shortage of fuel in war time.

German Officers Know the Answers

NAZI CAPTIVES DENY COACHING BUT ALL SPEAK SAME WORDS

By EDDY GILMORE

WITH RED ARMY SOUTHEAST OF ROSTOV (delayed) (AP)—The German flier came into the little house on the front dressed in a natty but soiled sky blue uniform with his head high. He bowed with mock politeness and sat down stiffly.

He was a perfect Hollywood type of the Nazi officer—piercing blue eyes with great white spaces around them, skin drawn tightly over his sharp face bones, sharp chin and a thin pointed nase.

He admitted he belonged to a Nazi party organization.

I asked the Russians what we could ask him.

"Whatever you want," their colonel answered.

I asked him what effect he thought the United States is having on the outcome of the war.

"None!" he shot back. "The African operation doesn't mean anything. Rommel has lost a little, but in this war you have to lose a little. He'll come back."

UNDERESTIMATED REDS

I asked him why the Germans are retreating.

"We underestimated the Russian strength," he said, "but all will be well next summer."

I quoted some United States and British production figures on war materiels.

"Exaggerations!" he leered.

I suggested the United States is getting into full production and soon will throw it all against Germany and her allies.

"You'll never get your stuff to Europe," he said, and all but laughed. "Then soon you will get tired."

When someone asked if he realized that in Germany a prisoner like himslf might be shot, he said:

"You can shoot me."

I asked him what he thought would happen to Germany when she lost the war.

"Germany can't lose," he sneered.

I asked him if officers are coached on their answers to questioning. He said:

"Of course, not."

He was told that he could go. He bowed and all but gave the Nazi salute.

"Tough guy!" someone said.

"Wait a minute," said another officer who had questioned Nazi party members before, "bring in another."

WORD FOR WORD—DITTO!

He fitted right into the portrait of the officer we had just dismissed.

We asked him w hat effect he thought the United States is having on the war.

"None!" he shot back. "The African operation doesn't mean anything. Rommel has lost a little, but in this war you have to lost a little. He'll come back."

We asked him, too, if officers are coached on their answers to questions.

"Of course not," he said.

We told him he could go. He rose, bowed with great formality, and almost gave the Nazi salute.

REDS WIDEN NEW GAP AT LENINGRAD

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Jan. 19 (AP)—Russia thrilled to the news of great accomplishments of the Red army today as Soviet troops smashed into sagging German forces all the way south from ice-bound Lake Ladoga outside newly reopened Leningrad to the high Caucasus.

While the Red army battered at the once-encircling German armies around Russia's second city to widen a five-mile corridor through which the 17-month siege was broken, other Soviet forces moved toward the Latvian border southwest of Velikie Luki.

This advance is threatening Salks, German supply center for its entrapped southern armies, tightened the vise in the Stalingrad area and made further progress in the direction of the steel city of Kharkov, Pittsburgh of the Ukraine.

Workers changing shifts in Russia's armament and other war industries shouted and hugged each other after public loudspeaker systems announced lifting of the siege.

The news was flashed to all parts of the Soviet Union, to every square and meeting place.

Moscow newsdealers were swamped to satisfy citizens' appetites for fresh tidings of widening triumphs.

SPLINTERED LIKE WOOD

The Leningrad offensive began Jan. 12 at 9 a. m. with a hurricane of artillery fire upon German positions on the elevated left bank of the Neva river.

So terrific was the barrage, Pravda reported, that it plowed up the frozen soil and splintered concrete pillboxes as though they were matchwood. The pounding lasted two hours and twenty minutes.

ROMMEL LIKELY TO QUIT TRIPOLI

CAIRO, Jan. 19 (AP)—The British Eighth Army spurted into the home stretch of its drive across Libya today with an advance which carried one of two attacking columns to within 50 miles or less of Tripoli—closer than Marshal Rommel came to Alexandria last summer.

With Gen. Montgomery pressing home the attack, the Axis had only a matter of hours in which to check the onslaught for an attempted stand, or to quit the city in a withdrawal toward the Tunisian border 100 miles west.

Montgomery's most advanced column, operating inland, has driven Axis forces from Beni Ulid and is in contact with the enemy toward Tarhuna, 40 miles southeast of Tripoli.

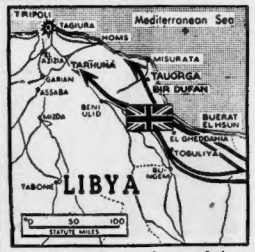
The second British column sped along the coastal road, passing through Misurata and Garibaldi and reaching the Zliten area 90 miles east of Tripoli.

Observers said British strategy might be to bring the columns together for a converging attack on Tripoli, or to attack the city with the coastal column and by-pass it to the south with the inland column.

There were indications Rommel had decided, or had been ordered, to yield Tripoli and attempt to get as many men as possible into Tunisia to join Nehring in a stand against Allied assaults from both sides.

An Italian communique reported Tripoli itself was under heavy Allied aerial attack, with repeated raids causing great damage to buildings and killing numerous civilians.

Allied fighter bombers ranged over the churning battleground to strafe the withdrawing enemy and bomb concentrations of troops and vehicles.



LIBYA—As one column of the British Eighth Army drives up the coast of Libya, a second contacts the German forces of Gen. Erwin Rommel in vicinity of Tarhuna, where tank skirmishes foretold a coming general battle.

AXIS TUNISIAN GAIN REVEALED

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 19 (AP)—An Allied communique today said "infantry and armored engagements took place in the area of Bou Arada-Goubellat" on the Tunisian front yesterday, and "the enemy gained some ground southwest of Pont Du Fahs."

This is along a battlefield south of Medjez el Bab, 30 to 40 miles southwest of Tunis.

LAST JAP PAPUA BASES CAPTURED

AUSTRALIA, Jan. 19 (AP)—Allied ground forces captured Sanananda Point and Sanananda village yesterday, according to Associated Press reports from the advanced operational base in New Guinea.

The Allied occupation of the coastal end of the Japanese-held Papuan corridor left the remnants of Lieut.-Gen. Tomitaro Morii's northeastern New Guinea army enveloped by Australian and American infantrymen in three restricted pockets from a half to two miles inland.

The Australian capture of Sanananda Point and the adjacent village at noon yesterday climaxed a series of co-ordinated attacking movements in which two American and three Australian infantry units took part.

Sanananda Point, lying between previously captured Gona and Buna, was the last remaining Japanese strongpoint in northeastern New Guinea.

The Aussies took the village after a short, sharp fight, then drove eastward along the coast to liquidate Japanese positions on Sanananda Point, and pressed on to Giruwa, where they encountered powerful defenses.

Meanwhile the Americans on the main track, leaving some men behind to contain a stubbornly held enemy pocket nearly two miles inland, pushed down the road toward the beach and established themselves at a road junction in support of the forward Australian units.

Two Deaths, Scores Hurt In Ice Storm

Two deaths and injuries to scores were recorded today in the ice storm which swept New England, turning highways into sheets of perilous ice, forced closing of schools and raised havoc with transportation facilities.

Thomas Murray, 73, of Somerville, suffered a fatal heart attack as he worked with the city's highway crew sanding ice-coated streets.

W. E. Oakes, 55, of Concord, N. H., was killed in a skidding accident in that city.

Falling temperatures and snow squalls were expected to add to the area's difficulties.

State Police credited light traffic with the lack of serious accidents or important tieups of transportation facilities.

There appeared to be no immediate danger to communication and electric power lines, however, due to differences in atmospheric conditions from the devastating ice storm which swept New England two weeks ago.

TIN DRIVE DELAYED

The icy conditions forced cancellation of Boston's tin-can collection in Wards 6, 7, 8, 9 and 10. Public Works officials said the area would be covered tomorrow in addition to Wards 11, 12, 13 and 14, previously scheduled.

Train, trolley and bus schedules were so disrupted that thousands of commuters were late for work. Transportation was at a standstill, many bus runs were canceled and railroad terminals jammed with passengers.

Walking was so hazardous that school officials ordered sessions cancelled in Acton, Abington, Dover, Weston, Woburn, Brookline, Stoughton, Revere, Easton, Franklin, Kingston, Marblehead, Peabody, Swampscott, Groton, Wrentham, Topsfield and Wenham and numerous other cities and towns.

SITUATION "ALARMING"

City Public Works Commr George Hyland, in calling all the available men and equipment to the task of sanding the streets, described the situation as "alarming."

By 4 a. m., 175 sand trucks were operating in the city and 150 more in the suburban communities. William T. Morrissey, Boston highway division engineer, said the falling mist caused ice to form over the top of the sand within a few minutes after it was sprinkled.

During the night and morning, Greater Boston hospitals were swamped with accident cases.

Similar reports were made by other hospitals in the metropolitan area, while many more victims managed to reach their homes to treat their bruises themselves.

COMMONS HITS VICTORY NOTE IN 1ST SESSION

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, Jan. 19 (INS)—Commons reassembled in the most cheerful atmosphere since the war began today and heard these promises and predictions:

Clement R. Attlee

Capt. Oliver Lyttelton

1—1943 will be a peak year for British war production.

2—Bombing of Germany will continue with no concern for reprisals.

3—Thousands of Nazi troops surrounded at Stalingrad will be annihilated.

4—With the initiative in Allied hands, Britain can look forward to this year "with justifiable confidence."

5—Britain's blackout will be alleviated slightly so far as transportation is concerned.

ATLEE LAUDS RUSSIANS

Chief spokesman for Prime Minister Churchill was Dominions Secretary and Deputy Prime Minister Maj. Clement R. Atlee.

"We looked forward to 1943 with justifiable confidence," he said. "The wonderful achievements of the Russian army take prize place."

Capt. Oliver Lyttleton, minister in charge of production, promised this "peak year" will emphasize manufacture of ships, aircraft, anti-U-boat devices, tanks, and certain specialized Army equipment.

WILL IMPROVE LIGHTS

Minister of Home Security Herbert Morrison said that in most areas, lighting of trains, buses and streetcars will be improved.

"Total destruction of enemy forces in North Africa remains our objective," Attlee said.

"Bad weather has made Tunisian operations difficult, but we have every confidence in Gens. Eisenhower and Anderson.

"Politically, the North Africa and British and American governments have a single objective—to promote union of all Frenchmen in the war against the Axis and for the liberation of France."

ERROL TRIAL WOMEN WOULD CHANGE LAW

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 19—As the Errol Flynn trial, with the screen actor thrice accused of statutory rape involving two teen-age girls, got rolling today, a poll of more than 50 women among spectators found only three approving the present law.

On the subject of the California statute defining as criminal sex relations with girls under 16, regardless of consent, one interviewed woman, a former school teacher, declared a man could not tell nowadays whether a new acquaintance was 15 or 40.

Concerned in the charges against the film swashbuckler are a 16-year-old girl, dark-haired Peggy La Rue Satterlee, Hollywood entertainer, and a 17-year-old film aspirant, Betty Hansen.

All the interviewed women except three housewives, none of whom has a daughter but two of whom have sons, said that 15 might be a more fitting age at which the law should limit its protection of girls.

TEACHER JAILED FOR 42 YEARS IN GIRL ATTACKS

Two State Prison sentences, totaling 42 to 48 years, were imposed today in Suffolk Superior Court on James M. McGillivray, 36, of Welles ave., Dorchester, a ninth grade public schoolteacher, on attack charges involving two sisters 8 and 9 years old.

Judge Frank J. Donahue imposed sentences of 21 to 24 years in each case, prison terms to be served "on and after," or one following the other.

McGillivray, who was found guilty Friday by a jury which deliberated only 17 minutes, took the double sentence without show of emotion and was immediately led out to start the ride to prison.

According to the charges and testimony, McGillivray, a mathematics teacher at the Patrick T. Campbell School, Roxbury, was taking care of a Dorchester neighbor's children on the night of Nov. 27 when the attacks occurred.

Hunt R. I. Man In Bludgeon Death of Wife

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 19—Missing since Saturday, Mrs. Angela C. Smith, 43-year-old jewelry store bookkeeper and daughter of a Providence physician, was found bludgeoned to death during the night in her summer cottage in suburban Foster.

The woman, a graduate of Bryant & Stratton business college, was fully clad, even to the fur coat she had worn when she left the Samsan Jewelry Co. store in Pine st., at 1 p. m. Saturday, ostensibly to go home.

Today police had sent out over the teletype system a request to all police to locate the murdered woman's husband, Thomas F. Smith, 45-year-old brakeman, from whom she had been estranged since last November, after only 14 months of marriage.

SHOVEL HANDLE SPLIT

The lonely cottage in Winsor rd., Foster, where the body was found by a searching party which included her mother, was one owned jointly by Mrs. Smith and her husband.

Police said that when the searchers reached the cottage they found a blood-stained shovel leaning against a wall of the cottage kitchen, only a few feet from the battered body.

The handle of the shovel was split and Lieut. Ralph E. Bonat of the State Police said the woman apparently had been struck such terrific blows with the shovel that the split had occurred.

Mrs. Smith, said to have been unusually attractive, had been living with her husband in an apartment in Atlantic ave., Providence, before the November separation.

LIVED WITH MOTHER

Snice then she had made her home with her mother, Mrs. Aurelia Lecesse, the physician's widow, in the same Atlantic ave. building.

When Mrs. Smith failed to return home Saturday afternoon from the jewelry store, where she had been employed 15 years, the mother thought little of it, but when she still had not appeared by last night, Mrs. Lecesse notified state police.

The mother, accompanied by

REILLY RESUMES GROVE FIRE PROBE BEHIND CLOSED DOORS

Fire Commr. William Arthur Reilly's long postponed resumption of his inquest into cause of the Cocoanut Grove fire was scheduled to reopen in secret session today.

Reilly said his decision for a private hearing was made "in view of the pending criminal proceedings in the Superior Court," where several city officials face trial. He added that he "may" make statements to the press from time to time on the progress of the inquest, and that "upon completon of the investigation in a report will be filed with the state fire marshal as required by law."

The report of Dist. Chief W. J. Mahoney, made to the fire marshal last Dec. 11, stating that "a young employe with a match" caused the fire, was characterized by Reilly as "not official," and "only one man's opinion."

The commissioner said he did not know how long his inquest hearings would continue, but said he planned to introduce such evidence as death certificates into the record.

BRADFORD PUTS BEANO BRIBE CHARGES UP TO GRAND JURY

Dist. Atty. Robert F. Bradford went before a special session of the Middlesex grand jury today to seek indictments against Dr. Harry "Doc Jasper," Sagansky for alleged efforts by the numbers pool syndicate to "buy out" the Malden city government and gain a monopoly over beano.

Sagansky, termed the "ringleader" of Greater Boston's $90,000,000 lottery industry, is at liberty under $30,000 bail following his arraignment in Malden court on bribery charges. Previously, cash bail of $15,000 was put up in Boston when he was arrested by State Police on lottery charges.

Arraigned with him in Malden was James J. Carrigan, Jr., filling station proprietor, whose bail was set at $5000. He was said to have acted as a "go between" in Sagansky's negotiations to open up beano in Malden.

Dr. Sagansky

Two days will probably be required for grand jury consideration of the case. If indictments are returned, Sagansky and Carrigan will find themselves in the shadow of State Prison, as bribery constitutes a felony.

In Malden court, each man was charged in three counts of attempting to bribe Aldermen Earl J. Chisholm and Timothy T. Duffy individually, and with conspiring to bribe their associates. Both defendants waived reading of the complaints and pleaded innocent.

Dist. Atty. Bradford asked Judge Elbridge G. Davis to set bail in $50,000, emphasizing that the charges against Sagansky involved felonies, "and I believe the consequences are so serious that the court should place a high bail."

"I have a letter from the attorney general," he added, "which informs me that Mr. Sagansky has a financial interest in the Mayfair and the Latin Quarter and that he has financial connections with a bank that are not ordinarily accessible to persons.

"We should be reasonable in some cases, but this case is the most brazen and barefaced attempt to buy up a city government that I have ever heard of."

Bradford said that while Carrigan is "equally guilty," he is a local man in a legitimate business without any record, and in his case $5000 should be sufficient bonds."

POMO MURDER CLUE IS TOOTH

Deductions by police and medical examiner which led to the finding of the death chamber in the Anthony Pomo gang slaying, were revealed today by Dr. William J Brickley, medical examiner, on the witness stand in Suffolk superior court.

Salvatore "Zip" Venuti, 31, of Hanover st., North End, who is on trial for his life, heard Dr. Brickley tell Judge Frank J. Donahue and a jury how, when Pomo's body was recovered from off Fisk pier, he found four bullet wounds in the body.

Dr. Brickley also described how a portion of the victim's black hair had been pulled out and that part of a tooth had been knocked off.

FIND BLACK HAIR

These clues with the fact that the bullet wounds in the chest would have resulted in "blood bubbles," which would have thrown off a blood spray as the victim was dying, according to Dr. Brickley, sent police in search for the death scene.

Dr. Brickley testified how the police located an apartment in the North End which recently had been "thoroughly scrubbed." Search, however, disclosed a handful of black hair, a piece of broken tooth, and a "blood spray."

Pomo's body had been buried for several weeks, Dr. Brickley testified, but it was exhumed. The tooth fitted "like a key to a lock" and the hair matched perfectly, said Dr. Brickley.

George Smith, assistant ballistic expert of the Boston police department, testified that results of his examination of a bullet taken from the apartment were the same as in one found in the body of the victim.

FOUR MEN INVOLVED

Venuti was the only one of four defendants involved in the killing who decided to make a court fight, Joseph Semenza, 28, of North st., and Joseph DeMarco, 24, of Hanover st., pleaded guilty to manslaughter.

Alphonse Penta of Henchman st., North End, in whose apartment Pomo was shot and stabbed on Nov. 15, 1941, has pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact and will testify for the state, according to Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle.

Still at large is Joseph "Little Bozo" Cortese, sought in connection with the slaying.

These Boston Cops Sure Are Versatile

Detectives Thomas O'Dwyer and Francis Quinlan, who posed as lovers of ice cream sodas a week ago to arrest John J. Clancy, 19, of Rutland st., South End, convicted of robbing downtown lunch room cashiers of hundreds of dollars, now work as "nursemaids."

Today, the same two detectives had a 21-year-old South Boston youth in custody as Clancy's alleged accomplice. They nabbed the new suspect by helping him stay up to mind a baby.

The sleuths had traced their suspect to a South Boston rooming house, but found he had moved. However, aided by some telephone numbers he had left behind, and by dint of a number of calls, they traced him to a relative's house. Visiting the house, they found their man, of all things, sitting up minding a baby.

MANY MINERS BACK AT WORK

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 19 (AP)—With presidential intervention believed imminent, nearly 5000 striking miners returned to jobs in Pennsylvania's anthracite field today in the largest back-to-work movement since the wildcat walkout three weeks ago.

About 12,350 insurgents remained idle, including 1400 employes of the Glan Alden Coal Co.'s south Wilkes-Barre colliery, which failed to reopen despite a vote by the UMW local there yesterday to resume operations.

The largest break in the strike came when 2700 workers returned to the Eddy Creke, Miles Clope and Grassy Island collieries of the Hudson Coal Co. in the Scranton area.

Operations also were resumed at the Hazelton shaft colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal Co., employing about 1400, and the Edison Anthracite Co.'s Nesquehoning operation, with about 900 workers.

The Hudson Coal Co. mines are in District 1, where the strike over the increased union dues and wages originated. The workers are protesting a 50-cent-a-month dues hike voted at the UMW convention last fall, and demanding a $2-a-day wage boost

THERE'S MORE COAL THAN OIL, SAYS WPB IN CONVERSION PLEA

Regardless of the present strike of anthracite miners in Pennsylvania, there is now—and will be—far more solid fuel than oil, War Production Board regional executives warned today in a new appeal for conversion of home heating systems.

The WPB appeal was directed particularly to 13,000 industrial plants in New England and asked that factory managers urge their employes to convert from oil to coal, because heatless homes produce sickness and thereby hamper the war effort.

The federal board emphasized that the chief fuel problem is transportation, not production, and that tank cars for transporting oil are only a fraction of those able to carry coal.

Col. Thomas F. Sullivan, state conservator, said the range oil situation seemed to be "in hand" when the WPB appeal was delivered, but that supplies of heavy-type bunker oil are again critically scarce. One of the latest schools forced to close owing to lack of fuel is St. Charles, in Waltham.

The first part of a 200,000-drum shipment of kerosene is scheduled to arrive in Boston by train Thursday, to relieve the shortage further.

In another move to save heavy heating oil, Petroleum Administrator Ickes and acting Price Administrator John Hamm decreed in Washington that "non-essential" oil rations of commercial, industrial and government consumers be slashed 40 per cent.

Home owners and other consumers who use fuel oil for space heating, hot water, domestic cooking and lighting purposes were not effected by the orders.

FLYNN READY TO FACE QUIZ

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (AP)—Urging his colleagues to withhold judgment on the appointment of Edward J. Flynn as minister to Australia, Sen. Pepper said today he was informed several persons named as potential witnesses were eager to contradict charges made against Flynn by Sen. Bridges.

Pepper said that he had been in communication with Serge Rubinstein, and the latter had expressed a desire to appear with records to meet Bridges' charges that Rubinstein, once represented by Flynn's law firm, had "presented a gift of money to the Japanese government at a time when our relations with Japan were clearly strained."

Pepper, a member of the foreign relations committee, which is scheduled to begin hearings on Flynn's qualifications tomorrrow, said Rubinstein assured him he had disposed of business interests in Japan in 1938, salvaging as much of his investments there as he could.

Miss Farmer's Frenzy Laid to Love of Stage

Special to the Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Jan. 19—Broadway friends of Frances Farmer, under a 180-day sentence in Hollywood, have hired a Los Angeles attorney to try to get the actress out of jail and into a hospital.

"She is not a drunk, and jail is no solution for her," said Harold Clurman, producer-husband of Actress Stella Adler. Clurman and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gage lead the group of Miss Farmer's friends anxious to help her.

Stella Adler Frances Farmer

"Her friends in New York are many," said Clurman. "They understand she was always retiring from the Hollywood crowd and they resented her attitude. One producer said he wouldn't hire her because of her remarks about the movie captial."

He scouted the idea that she was ever in love with anyone except Lief Erickson, from whom she was divorced.

"What she needs now is treatment," said Clurman. She is suffering from frustration, for she loved the stage and not the movies, where, ironically, she made her biggest success."

The Arthur Gages said that for a year they have been urging her to go to a physician.

TREGASKIS' BOOK ON SALE

NEW YORK, Jan. 19 (INS)—The first major book to come out of America's war in the Pacific was published by Random House today—"Guadalcanal Diary," by Richard Tregaskis, staff correspondent of International News Service.

It is the story of the United States Marines who landed at Guadalcanal and who held it by sheer grit and determination in those early days last summer when there were no reinforcements, virtually no planes, little food and medicine, and when the odds were overwhelming.

In tribute to this first work by a young correspondent who landed with the initial detachment of Marines and stayed with them for eight bitter weeks, the Book-of-the-Month Club chose Guadalcanal Diary along with Norman Angell's "Let the People Know" as its joint selection for February.

WINS HIGH PRAISE

In the club's monthly magazine, Dorothy Canfield, says:

"There are two reasons for our reading this factual, day-by-day account of what happened to the American forces at Guadalcanal.

"One is that the book satisfies our intense desire to know in detail about the daily life of our service men in action.

The second is that the book brings home to us by its matter-of-fact unarranged definiteness something we are—once more, all over again—in danger of forgetting; what war is.'

Tregaskis, in the actual front line of every battle on Guadalcanal, was wise enough to remove the correspondent's green and white brassard from his arm 'because the Japanese liked to shoot at newspapermen."

GOES BACK TO FRONT

Tregaskis will not be on hand to receive the plaudits accorded the author of an inevitable best-seller whose first work is chosen by the Book-of-the-Month Club. He is now back on duty in the Southwestern Pacific, having returned to New Hebrides and Guadalcanal after a brief vacation at Pearl Harbor in which he finished the book.

Tregaskis, only 26, was born at Elizabeth, N. J., attended Harvard, where he was awarded five separate scholarships and, upon his graduation, joined the feature staff of the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 19 (AP)—Pvt. Albert A. Schmid of the Marines, credited with killing 200 Japs on Guadalcanal, came home today with one eye shot away and the other able to distinguish only bright lights.

Nurses said Miss Hartley's letters helped greatly to pull Schmid through when it was feared his injuries would prove fatal.

BOY, GIRL FREEZE TO DEATH IN CAR ON TOWN'S MAIN STREET

CAMP POINT, Ill., Jan. 19 (AP)—A boy and girl froze to death in an automobile parked on this town's main street, in the heart of the business district, Coroner Eugene Johnston reported today.

The dead were Eleanor Bradley, 17, and Donald MacMeans, 16, both of Camp Point. Tom Louderback, 19, found in the driver's seat, was taken to a Quincy, Ill., hospital in critical condition but Mederith Davis, 21, fourth occupant of the car, apparently suffered only slightly from the exposure.

Townspeople walked past the car all day and even shoveled snow around it without being aware that it was occupied. The first indication of the tragedy was about 4 p. m. when Davis stumbled out of the rear of the car and gave an alarm.

In the back seat was found the body of MacMeans. Louderback was unconscious under the wheel. Miss Bradley, slumped down in the front seat, was dead.

Coroner Johnston and Dr. Harry Pittman, Camp Point physician, agreed that the cause of the deaths was freezing. An inquest was called for today.

The coroner said MacMeans and Davis were last seen leaving a tavern at 11 p. m. last night to rejoin Louderback and the girl, who had gone for a ride.

WAAC ON TORPEDOED SHIP WRITES OWN RESCUE STORY

(Capt. Alene Drezmal of White Bear Lake, St. Paul, Minn., was one of the first five WAAC's sent overseas. The other four were Mattie A. Pinette, Ft. Kent, Me.; Ruth M. Briggs, Westerly, R. I.; Martha E. Rogers, Jackson, Miss., and Louise Anderson, Denver, Col. The five, together with a contingent of nurses, were en route from England to North Africa when their ship was torpedoed. Here Capt. Drezmal gives a first-hand account.)

By CAPT. ALENE DREZMAL
Written for the Associated Press

ALLIED FORCE HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Jan. 6 (Delayed)—Along with four other WAAC's and some 30 American nurses and British nurses, I was aboard a ship torpedoed about 70 miles off the coast.

I shouldn't want to go through it again, but it's nice to have seen how splendidly people can conduct themselves under such circumstances. It made you proud of Americans and Briish. Their gallantry was inspiring.

Our ship was carrying mainly English troops, with English and American officers and nurses and WAAACS. Before the torpedo smashed through the stern of the boat that night we had been "torpedo conscious. There had been submarine reports the day before and we had done a lot of zigzagging.

Some of the girls already were packed. I had stayed up quite late making preparations. My clothes were there ready to be jumped into as if I were a fireman.

GIRL SLEEPS THROUGH IT

The torpedo struck with a splintering crash when all were asleep. Three of us awoke at once and realized what had happened. One slept through it. The other heard crash but didn't thin kwe had been hit and wanted to go back to sleep. Maybe I had better not mention names lest those girls be a bit embarrassed.

However, we all eventually fell into our clothes as best we could and got to our boat station with our tin hats, bags and purses. Three WAACS found places in a lifeboat, but Louise Anderson and I could not find a vacant seat and for a time it looked as if we and an English nurse were the only three women lefa on board.

Later, though, we learned that two English nurses had been down below taking care of their patients.

PERKS UP MORALE

Louise and I and some American officers kept circulating about the deck. The officers said it was a good thing to have women still aboard for it perked up morale of the men.

After a couple of hours the ship's officers heard that we three women were aboard and took us from the deck to the bridge. We were served tea and whisky and biscuits. It must have been a strange scene—the ship going down and we cracking jokes and making silly remarks. I think I've never laughed so much in my life. It was like a tea party.

For a while we thought the ship would go down in about an hour, then word got around that the officers thought it might be possible to keep it afloat. Finally a destroyer towed us and the others in the lifeboats.

We still were far from comfortable about it all as the vessel limped along at five knots, making a fine target. We felt a lot better when we picked up an escort of destroyers at dawn.

GIRLS SHOW GREAT SPIRIT

Early in the afternoon we were taken off the ship, and shortly after it started burning. On the destroyer British officers shared cigarettes and chocolate drinks with the American girls who had been picked up from their lifeboats.

The girls had had hard going. They had helped pull men out of the water, had nursed the injured and had bailed out the lifeboats with their tin hats. They showed grea spirit.

We arrived at Oran late in the afternoon of Dec. 21. We were put up for the night. Officers arranged every possible convenience for us.

Looking back upon the adventure, I would say that perhaps most of us had moments of individual fright.

U. S. FLIERS SHARE THRILL OF BOMBER RAID ON BERLIN

AT AN RAF BOMBER BASE SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Jan. 19 (AP)—Several Americans were among the men who carried destruction to Berlin in the renewed battle of bombs between London and Adolf Hitler's capital, a visit here disclosed today.

The pilot of a Lancaster bomber called "N for Nuts" on Saturday night's raid was tall, slender, red-mustached Flight Sergt. Terry Goodwin, 22, who left his home in Wyncote, Pa., two years ago to join the Royal Canadian Air Force.

REACHED OBJECTIVE

In Saturday night's raid on the German capital, "N for nuts" reached the objective within a minute of the estimated arrirval time, sowed hundreds of incendiaries over the city, dropped a 4000-pound bomb and rode back home unscathed—still within a minute of schedule.

"Our target was the center of Berlin, just as the Germans' target used to be the center of London, and we laid our big bomb right there," Goodwin said.

"No, we are quite sure we were not fooled by false buildings. And dummy fires? They actually helped us find some targets because we had been told to expect them, recognized them in places where it was said they would be, and used them to check bearings on the real targets.

"We all were sorry we couldn't go out again Sunday night, but the kite (airplane) we had is rather old and needed working on before it will be ready to go again."

Another American RCAF member on the Saturday raid was Warrant Officer Earl (Tiny) English of Little Rock, Ark. He was navigator on a plane. A truck driver and lumberjack in civilian life, he has been on 37 raids over Europe.

ALLIES WEIGH NEW STRATEGY

By KINGSBURY SMITH

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19 (INS)—Reports were current today important developments in strategy are impending as a result of discussions between the United States and Great Britain.

The next major move and methods of combatting the Nazi submarine menace are believed to have been discussed.

The view prevails in some quarters here that the United Nations should consider an all-out attack on Japan before Germany is completely knocked out.

This suggestion is understood to have been prompted by the fear that when Germany has finally been defeated the British and Russians may be so war weary that there will be little enthusiasm for continuation of the war in the Pacific.

Danger is seen that then there might be popular support for a compromise peace with Japan, or that America might be left holding the bag in the Far East.

The opinion is voiced that the United Nations should continue concentrating on Germany until Hitler's power to launch major offensives has been crushed, and the Germans are pushed back to their own soil. Then it is felt the United Nations should consider Japan.

Thus it might be possible to procure Russia's aid against Japan.

pointed out that Hitler's satellite armies had taken a particularly heavy drubbing in the winter drive, calculating that six of nine Hungarian divisions on the eastern front had been badly mauled, seven of ten Italian divisions had been knocked out and that 16 of 20 Rumanian divisions had been liquidated as casualties and prisoners.

The army moving southwest from Voronezh in the sixth and newest of the Red offensives in the south was reported within 108 miles of Kharkov after the capture of Afanasievka, 20 miles north of the railway connecting Svoboda and Kupyansk.

TWO LEAD SQUEEZE

The week-long smash that resulted in piercing the German ring around Leningrad was the work of two Russian columns. One striking east from Leningrad was commanded by Col.-Gen. Leonid Govorov, and the other striking west from the Volknov river was led by Gen. Kirkill A. Meretskov.

The two groups, supported by powerful forces of artillery and tanks, caught the ancient Nazi-held fortress of Schluesselburg in a nutcracker and smashed it, killing 13,000 Germans, routing four divisions, taking prisoner more than 1260, and capturing huge quantities of armament.

Marshals Gregory K. Zhukov and Klementi Voroshilov were the master minds behind the co-ordinated operations which apparently had cut about a five-mile-wide corridor to Leningrad from the east. Schluesselburg is about 22 miles east of Leningrad on the south shore of Lake Ladoga.

BELT OF FORTS

In announcing this gain the Russians told of the tremendous belt of Nazi fortifications that had to be reduced—470 enemy strongpoints were demolished and 172 artillery batteries silenced—and it was assumed that the corridor was firmly held or the announcement of the siege's lifting never would have been made.

According to battle reports from the Solomons, even slow flying Navy patrol bombers have joined speeedy Army Flying Fortress and Marauder bombers in assaults on Jap positions from one end of the archipelago to the other.

NEW SON OF FAMED AVIATRIX IS TRUE PATRIOT-BY-BIRTH

If tiny, five-day-old Alfred Christian Castendyk at Phillips House of Massachusetts General Hospital were suddenly to start warbling patriotic tunes, his nurses ought not to be too greatly astonished.

His grandfather is an Army captain, his father is Pvt. Frederick Castendyk of the military police, stationed at Melrose, and his mother is the former Ruth Ingalls of Lynn, internationally known aviatrix who has personally trained scores of Uncle Sam's fighting airmen.

A year ago the girl flier and Pvt. Castendyk were married in an airplane high above the city because, in her words, "I want to be near heaven when I marry!"

The young mother, a graduate of Radcliffe, '31 and close personal friend of the late Amelia Earhart, was first inspired to fly by the great aviatrix and later made flights not only here but over Europe as well.

Later at Plymouth, N. H., she started giving her husband flying lessons and began teaching groups of youngsters in the air, many of whom later took to the air against the Axis.

She is the daughter of Ex-Rep. Alfred Ingalls, now an Army captain and a prominent Boston attorney.

SO MUCH MORE SUDS!"

says Mrs. Christie Cook of Pawling, New York

WISH we could tell you how many women have told us things like this—"So much more suds and longer-lastin' suds sure saves backaches and heartaches on wash-days!"..."I get my wash extra white with less rubbin' and that makes things wear longer." ... "I cut my washin' time 'way down since usin' Super Suds."

Ma'am—don't you think more suds and longer-lasting suds would help you on wash-day? Just make the "milk-bottle suds test," and see all those thick, rich, long-lasting suds you get from Super Suds.

HOW YOU MAKE THE "MILK-BOTTLE SUDS TEST"

Just put two teaspoons of your present wash-day soap and a glass of water into a milk-bottle. Do the same with new sudsier Super Suds in another milk-bottle. Use any kind of water, even hard or cold water. Shake the bottles. Just see if there aren't more suds in the Super Suds bottle, and if they aren't longer-lastin' suds, too!

"We just got home from the town carnival in this picture. Young Christie is kiddin' his Dad about showin' off his nice new shirt. 'Course it wasn't really new. But, givin' so much more suds, Super Suds gets shirts real white with mighty little rubbin'... so they keep on lookin' like new."

"When Christie comes home with a work-jacket like this—just standin' with grease—that's when I'm tickled pink knowin' I've got more suds to wash with. With Super Suds, those extra suds soak out grease lickety-split. And bein' such long-lastin' suds, they keep the soaked-out dirt from settlin' back on the jacket again. Sure saves rubbin'."

This is Mrs. Mabel Quinlan of Hicksville, New York and her daughter, Betty, talking about Super Suds being so easy on the hands. Being so extra-sudsy, it doesn't need harsh chemicals to get dishes clean. Here she's telling Betty: "Your hands won't tell on you doin' dishes as long as you use Super Suds."

New Youth-Making Cream Praised

By ARLINE GOULD

WOMEN HAVE looked for magic in their cosmetics ever since history began . . . but not until this decade were they able to find it. It's not called magic today. It's called science.

This is one time when they can hope for a miracle . . . and see it happen before their very eyes . . . for the proof in the files of a company sponsoring a "functional cream" shows amazing smoothing out of complexions 40, 50 and 60 years old! It acts like magic, but it is the fruit of scientific thought and discovery.

This is not photographic proof to which we refer, in case you remind yourself that photographs can be retouched . . . these are actual "moulages," or casts made in a physician's office, showing lines and wrinkles, great areas of them, replaced by a full, smooth appearance. The firm-textured look that is associated with youth!

New records and statistics have recently piled higer than ever in the headquarters of the house that sponsors this "functional cream," which you may consider a new category in cosmetics. This cream has in it a basic ingredient called "activol," which no other cosmetic has.

It helps to replace, by absorption through the skin, a substance which is present in generous quantities during youth, but which decreases rapidly at a certain point in life, varying pretty much with the individual. Its absence is indicated by a let-down in the skin and crepiness or lines . . . and it may occur in the early '20's, or at 40 or over, the average age, or at 40 or over.

We are told that the purpose of this cream . . . which may be accomplished only if you use it with clock-like regularity, faithfully and sparingly according to directions . . . is to build this deficiency back to normal.

This rich, ivory-tinted cream, made with a base of rare oils that would be invaluable in themselves, is to be used on the face, neck AND hands, since the effect is shown only where the cream is used.

Walnuts Popular

Good Sub for Meat

By MARTHA LEE

EVERY HOMEMAKER KNOWS the importance of nutritious food these busy days. But with rationing and shortages facing her on every hand, the big problem is to put together properly balanced menus that will also tempt the palates of the family.

More and more women are learning that one of their old favorites can help them solve these new problems. They've known all along that walnuts always make a big hit with the family, either right from the shell, as a garnish for salads and desserts, or as an important ingredient of madeup dishes. Now they are finding that walnuts are also a really nutritious, balanced food that helps to keep the family healthy.

They are an excellent source of calories, the energy units needed to keep going at top speed, rich in vitamin B-1, supply some vitamin A, and contain many of the essential minerals, particularly calcium, phosphorous and iron. But right now walnuts are even more important as a source of protein, the muscle-building element which meat ordinarily supplies. The high-protein content of walnuts makes them an excellent substitute for meat. Or walnuts can be combined with meat in many tasty ways to make small quantities go much farther.

Here is a walnut meat loaf which is a delicious meat stretcher:

WALNUT MEAT LOAF

3 tbsp. chopped onion
3 tbsp. fat 1½ tsp. salt
½ lb. ground round steak
2 cups bread crumbs
2 cups finely chopped walnut kernels
½ cup shredded cheese
1 large boiled potato, mashed
3 tbsp. chopped parsley
2 tbsp. chili sauce
1 egg, beaten 2 cups milk

Saute onions in fat. Mix all ingredients into loaf and bake 70 to 75 minutes in moderately hot oven (375 deg. F.). Serve with cheese or tomato souce. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

There's no need to let wartime meals become dull—not when it's so easy to keep them full of flavor and variety. This nutritious walnut potato fluff, for instance, is just crammed with zesty, bracing flavor for wintry days like these:

WALNUT POTATO FLUFF

3 to ¼ cooked mashed patotoes
3 to ¼ cooked carrots, riced or mashed
1 tbsp. butter Milk as needed
Salt and pepper to taste
1 egg, beaten Tomato sauce
1 cup broken walnut kernels
½ cup grated cheese

Cook potatoes and carrots and mash together—or use leftovers. Add butter and whip thoroughly, adding enough milk to make them fluffy. Season to taste. Fold in egg, walnuts and cheese. Place in greased baking dish and bake at 350 deg. F. for 30 minutes. Decorate with half walnut kernels. Cut in slices or squares and serve at once with hot tomato sauce. Make 6 to 8 servings.

WALNUT CHEESE FONDUE

¼ lb. grated American cheese
1 cup broken walnut kernels
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
1 cup milk 1 egg, beaten
1 tbsp. fat 2 tbsp. minced onion
1 tbsp. lemon juice
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine cheese, nuts, bread crumbs, milk and egg. Melt fat, add onion and saute to a golden brown. Combine mixtures and add remaining ingredients. Bake in greased baking dish (375 deg. F.) for 45 minutes. Makes 6 to 8 servings. May be served with Spanish or tomato sauce.

Brides Carry Bible to Altar

Copyright, 1943, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: I am being married at a formal wedding at 5 p. m. I would like very much to carry a prayer book. Would this be proper?

GRACE.

Yes. And it is significant how many brides these days are carrying a praper book or a Bible at their wedding. The binding may be white, or covered with the satin of the wedding dress. Sometimes an orchid or a floral spray is carried on it, and often there is a marker of small white flowers, tiny white orchids or orange blossoms (real or waxed) or starry jasmine.

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct to spell it "honour" with a "u" on formal wedding invitations? My stationer told me that this is no longer done.

ELIZABETH.

I prefer the English style of spelling . . . honour and favour . . . in formal wedding invitations.

GOLD TOP SPRING COLOR

By BETTINA BEDWELL

REPORTS that come to me from folks who dish out colors to the women of this nation are to the effect that gold is being hoarded by the multitudes as their most treasured spring shade. And we find gold-colored tailored suits are going over big. And then there are golden touches, such as hat, bag, etc, for black, navy and brown suits, not to leave out beige and gray.

In case you are going to get a spring coat, one made of gold-colored wool is worth considering. The Anthony Blotta model is an elegant example. Made by a master coat designer, this coat has a suggestion of the military in frogs made of the material and set on the shoulders as epaulettes. Similar trimming adorns the hip pockets. A warm brown alligator belt holds the fitted waistline of the coat.

How's Your Darning and Mending, Ladies?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

ATTENTION, sweethearts and wives! What's your batting average with the needle? Even if your man is overseas, and you've never bothered very much about his undarned socks, missing buttons, rips and tears, you may have to give these things your earnest consideration before Johnny comes marching home.

At one of her recent press conferences, Mrs. Roosevelt told, while she was in England, of seeing great hampers of doughboy clothes turn up at sewing centers to be mended. This darning and patching is looked after gratuitously by British women who want to make the Yankee doughboy most comfortable.

When he comes home, will your man sigh for the good old days in the service when his undies were returned to him comfortably whole and with no buttons missing. Better join a sewing circle. There are a number of them at different Army posts.

In this country, as far as I know, California is the first State to consider the rehabilitation of soldiers' clothes. It began not long ago after a soldier walked into a service station where a number of women were industriously playing their needles. This was in San Diego. He handed out a torn shirt and asked the lady in charge if it could be mended.

Meanwhile, why don't we take over the idea in a big way, the same as Great Britain has? So many women write to this column and want to know what they could do to help along the war effort. This is one answer to them. Darning and mending for soldiers is done in a sporadic way by the USO, and in Florida at Camp Blanding such work goes on. But why don't we make it general?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm in love with a boy who joined the Marines a few months ago, and when he left, asked me to wait for him. We had been corresponding, but after two or three letters he stopped writing, and when I asked him, he said he is too busy. I've learned since, that he is corresponding with a girl from his home town.

He asked me for my picture, and I don't know whether to send it or not. What do you think about that? WORRIED.

If he's too busy to write to you, why should you send him your picture? Young men have a way of asking for photographs when they mean really nothing to them. They're just sort of scalps at the belt, which they display as evidence of their powers to charm to others. Be a bit particular about handing out your picture.

A Patriot Speaks

ROANE WARING, national commander of the American Legion, is a victory-minded, straight-thinking patriot.

He effectively represents more than 1,135,000 men who have proved their devotion to their country in war and peace.

A few days ago in Washington Commander Waring gave the American people this right-from-the-shoulder advice:

COMMANDER WARING
"We Must Make War"

"Our objective is to kill, to destroy, and to wipe the Axis governments from the face of the earth. This must be done in the quickest time possible. We must realize that every minute, every hour and every day this war is prolonged will be paid for with the blood of American fighting men.

"Our sole aim must be to devote our every effort, our every thought, our every resource to the victorious conclusion of this war. Until this war is over and victory is won, we must not weaken our efforts by vain and premature planning for a new and never-to-be-attained world-wide Utopia.

"We must meet the challenge of this hour with the needs of the hour—WE MUST MAKE WAR!

"We must not busy ourselves with the terms of a peace not yet won, except to make the single resolution that it must be a peace of absolute military victory, a dictated peace, and never a negotiated peace."

This is an invitation to the time-wasters, the professional reformers and the perpetual busy-bodies to fall into the ranks of the armed forces and to contribute something more than hot air to the victory effort.

In effect, it says to them: "Put up or shut up!"

THEN, hitting the proverbial nail squarely on its head, Commander Waring went on to say:

"Our enemies are working 60, 70 and 80 hours a week. We cannot expect to beat them by working half that time.

"By a little more energy and work and toil and sweat at home, we can produce what the Army requires, and still not have to deny the armed forces the men who are needed as soldiers on the fighting line. Just a little less folderol and trimmings, a little less concern about the world of the future, more concentration on the job of winning the war, and we will achieve our goal.

"When slow-downs, work stoppages and strikes cease; when industry realizes that there are plenty of man-hours of labor left in the hearts and muscles and brains of older men who, while too old to fight, beg the opportunity to do their part in production; when we discard for the duration the theory of limiting hours of work in wartime; when women are given a greater part in production, and, yes, when at last the thousands upon thousands of government employes and bureau attaches, entirely unnecessary in the war effort and who only serve the purpose of harassing, delaying and impeding American industry by unnecessary questionnaires and investigations, are released for labor and shown their places on the production line, then our man-power problem will be solved, and there will be no necessity to hamper the armed forces and lessen their effectiveness."

Strikers, disciples of play-as-usual, political opportunists and armchair strategists may not agree with Commander Waring, but the great majority of Americans who are not afraid to sweat for the country they love will applaud him.

WE ARE NOT fighting to force freedom on those who do not want it—and at least half the world has no notion of being "free" in the American sense of the word.

We are NOT fighting for any ideals except those of STRICTLY AMERICAN GROWTH.

We are fighting this war, as Commander Waring bluntly said, in the manner that every patriotic nation has ever fought—to protect its ideals and its material wealth.

It is our material wealth—the product of private enterprise—that will count in bringing the conflict to a successful conclusion.

Material wealth makes the bullets, the tanks, the airplanes and the ships, and it clothes, feeds and sustains our men.

Material wealth is therefore one of the FIRST THINGS that we must keep aglow in our hearts, in our brains and in our muscles.

The future has a tricky, sometimes mocking, way of taking care of itself. Concluded Commander Waring:

"The time to plan the future Timbuctoo and Patagonia is AFTER we have destroyed the military might of the Germans and Japs."

ABOVE IS the nursery rhyme, "Four and Twenty Blackbirds," in pidgin English. Many men of our armed forces are now in territories where pidgin English is spoken, so this gives you an idea of what they have to listen to . . . In its battle for wages for wives, the British Married Women's Association says the home manager's salary should be half of the money that is left after household expenses, provision for savings, etc., have been taken care of. Keep this in mind, mister, when deciding what salary to pay your wife. The B. M. W. A., striving to be fair, says in event of a wife going to work in a war plant, she should pool her wages with those of her husband. From this sum the household expenses should be paid and then the couple should split what is left two ways. If you have a career girl wife, ask her what she thinks of this.

PLEASE NOTE: One dramatic writer says Lynn Fontanne is the first lady of the theater. Another says the title belongs to Helen Hayes. And still another claims it rightfully belongs to Ethel Barrymore. They are all wrong; the first lady of the theater is Katharine Cornell . . . Jean Harlow was a refreshingly frank young woman. She was always confessing something or pointing out her faults. For example, she once said: "You know why I always wear long skirts? My legs are terrible." Now Olivia De Havilland seems to be going in for refreshing bursts of confidences. She told Sara Hamilton: "I gobble my food. I should be ashamed of myself. I'm stubborn. I like to flirt and do so outrageously."

THIS AND THAT: The Japs have occupied about 25,000 islands in the Pacific. Instead of trying to drive the Nipponese from all those islands it would seem the United States forces would try to capture Japan and let the Japs stay on the islands. This is my first try at being an arm chair admiral; what do you think of it? . . . The number of a popular Manhattan restaurant is 711 7th Ave. I have never had an unusual horse, telephone or automobile license number. I can remember such things as the scores of a doubleheader between the Giants and Dodgers in 1921 or what price the Kentucky Derby winner of 1927 paid and how many hits I made in a game against Holy Cross when in college, but I can hardly ever remember my telephone or auto license number.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—What is your favorite Biblical quotation? A—It is from Luke: "The Kingdom of God is within you." . . . Q—What is the age limit for fatherhood? A—As to the average age limit I do not know, but men of science claim that it is possible for a man of 96 years of age to become a father . . . Q—What is this wonderful system of shaving you have? A—I have no unusual system of shaving. I have stated that some experts state the razor should always be hot and wet and that it should be held at an angle of between 28 and 32 degrees and that olive oil should be rubbed on the face before the shave.

PASSING BY: Janet Gaynor. First usherette to become a film star. Miss Gaynor is a rare type; a cute, little trick red-head. Most red-haired women are tall or broad. Janet is five feet tall and weighs 100 pounds. She is five pounds underweight according to the life insurance scale of weights. She should start drinking double malted milks. Did you know that several years ago when Jimmie Stewart was underweight his doctor ordered him to drink eight ice cream sodas a day?

SIDELIGHTS: Has been said that a name which is hard to pronounce is a great handicap for a stage, screen or radio star. It doesn't seem to have handicapped Sonja Henie much. Nine out of 10 pronounce her name incorrectly. It is correctly pronounced "Son-ya Hay-nee" . . . "Big Bill" Edwards weighed 300 pounds during his football playing days at Princeton. That is the top weight of all time for a player on one of the major universities teams . . . Hitler, Hirohito and Mussolini do not smoke. The United Nations leaders all smoke but none the same way. Churchill goes for cigars, Stalin for a pipe and Roosevelt for cigarettes.

ADD ITEMS: A Middle Western divorce court judge awarded the family dog to the wife. The next day the dog saw the husband on the street, followed him home and now refuses to leave his master. That pup better be careful or he will be arrested for contempt of court . . . It is claimed that most red-haired women are very strict with their husbands. There may be something to this claim as I heard a red-haired woman say today: "My husband never knocks his cigarette ashes off on the floor or in saucers or on dining room plates. If he did I would rub his nose in the ashes."

SAYS SHE: "Why are people so sensitive about false teeth?" asks a young woman of Detroit. "I am 26 years old and have a complete set of false teeth. They are much more beautiful than my original teeth were. Very often one of my men friends says: 'What beautiful teeth you have.' I always answer: 'Yes, beautiful but false.' Of course, the man I am going to marry shortly knows I have false teeth. Suppose I had tried to conceal the fact and he found it out after marriage? It might mean a divorce."

AIDS DRIVE FOR RUSSIAN RELIEF IN MONTREAL

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, MONDAY—Here it is Monday and I am still writing about Saturday! I really did get badly behind. However, there is little to record on Saturday, except that I opened the "Mile of Dime's" by speaking over the radio for a few minutes and putting two pieces of silver on the line for the President and myself.

In the late afternoon I went down to talk to the workers in the United States Office of Education about my trip to Great Britain. Then, in the evening, I went on a complete tour, at least as complete as three hours could make it, of the recreation centers for service men in the District of Columbia. This was not my own idea, but a request from the committee.

I WAS VERY HAPPY to go, since there are so many men in and out of Washington, for it seems to be both a place for recreation and for changing planes and trains to reach other parts of the country.

Yesterday morning I spoke at the annual communion breakfast for the members of the Carroll Club. This club has for many years been a home and a great influence in the lives of thousands of girls who work in New York city.

LAST EVENING I had supper and spoke at International House, and tonight I shall be on my way to Montreal, Canada. Many important groups throughout the province of Quebec are joining together to make this benefit for Russian relief on Tuesday night a great success.

People are always writing me suggestions of one kind or another. I have one from the Veterans of Foreign Wars of Tulsa, Okla., which really may have merit and meet a need in other parts of the country. They tell me that so many wives and children travel to see their husbands and fathers in Army camps. They sometimes wait long hours in bus terminals and railroad stations, with no place to put the baby down for a few minutes except on the wooden benches.

THE VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS, therefore, have provided cribs and baby baskets to relieve this need, and found that both the mothers and children seem very much happier. I should think that the problem of laundry and keeping mattresses clean might be more difficult than would at first appear.

Possibly some cover can be arranged which takes only a few minutes to wash off, and a pad which can be changed for every new baby that occupies the crib might be a safe covering. In any case, this is an idea which various organizations might like to consider if they find the same needs in their town as seem to have developed in Tulsa.

RITA HAYWORTH

SO FEW STAND-INS become stand-outs that there seems to me to be a good human interest story in the saga of dark-haired Nan Wynn, who is currently best known for being the voice of Rita Hayworth in "You Were Never Lovelier" and "My Gal Sal." And I wonder if Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson are aware of the fact that Nan wouldn't be in show business today if they were not very nice, wholesome, happily married folks.

Perhaps they recall that when Nan left home at the age of 16 and got a job with a vaudeville unit, they happened to be on the same bill. They were there when Nan's worried mother followed her to New York to rescue her from show business . . . Upon mom's excited arrival, the Sandersons took her to dinner, and mom decided that show business must be all right if people like Frank and Julia were in it.

BOSTON after DARK

SCENES THAT A HOLLYWOOD film cutter would discard as dead footage make Noel Coward's "In Which We Serve" the greatest picture of the war . . . Hollywood would not have the patience to parade a score of British tars before their leave taking skipper, each with the same sort of a goodbye to say, but each contributing a fine bit to a classic scene by the simple sincerity of beautiful acting . . . And can you imagine a war film which does not once show the enemy?

YOU HEAR the sound of enemy bombers and watch the flash of his guns, but the swastika does not come in line of vision as often as once . . . The worst epithet hurled at the Nazi vultures is the word 'butterfingers,' after a near miss on a raft of sailors . . . Don't think that the picture hasn't guts . . . It doesn't need the seven-letter word beginning with "b" which U. S. censors elided . . . Flag-waving is reserved for the final minute when the Union Jack decorates an unseen voice with a simple message of patriotism and the love of an island-people for the sea, the ships that sail it, and the men that sail the ships.

IF ALEXANDER KORDA won a title for his service to the King as a film-maker, Noel Coward has a peership hands down for "In Which We Serve" . . . Coward has served the British cause by showing some groups of his unaffected countrymen and countrywomen in pursuit of their duty, as they variously see and do it . . . He did the same sort of a job once before in Cavalcade" . . . *Because of "In Which We Serve," Americans will come to know the names: John Mills, Celia Johnson and Kay Walsh . . . GARY COOPER GETS GAMBLER ROLE IN "SARATOGA TRUNK"

By Louella O. Parsons

Copyright, 1943, by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 19—The lady who wrote me so sarcastically that she would bet money Gary Cooper wouldn't do all the movies I've rumored for him can "eat them words." Gary should be triplets, or at least twins, for he not only gets the gambler role in "Saratoga Trunk" at Warners, but he will also do "The Story of Dr. Wassells" for Cecil De Mille—and those, my friends, are two whopping assignments.

The reason Gary can do both pictures is "Saratoga Trunk" starts Feb. 15 and De Mille won't call him until late April, which is still a tight squeeze.

Meanwhile, Sam Wood, who will direct "Saratoga Trunk" is staging a one-man campaign for Ingrid Bergman to play Clio. A telephone call was also put through to Vivien Leigh in London about playing the role and she did not turn down the offer. However, she is stipulating that if she accepts her entire salary be donated to British War Relief, but Sam doubts she will leave Laurence Olivier.

DIANA BARRYMORE

NO YOUNG ACTRESS has ever taken harder wallops from the critics than Diana Barrymore. But in spite of the barbed darts her pictures, "Between Us Girls" and "Nightmare" have been cleaning up and exhibitors write in glowing terms about Diana.

This is a little matter that has not escaped Universal, a studio where they have always been convinced that the paying customer is right.

Walter Wanger, who has Diana under personal contract, has great confidence in her, too, so critical reviewers to the contrary, Diana will "emote" next in a book Walter has just bought, "Looking for Trouble," by Virginia Cowles. It's about a femme war correspondent, a sort of female Quentin Reynolds.

WHEN I TALKED with Cary Grant about a month ago he wanted to leave movies to go abroad and entertan the boys at the front. But these things take time and so far Cary has no definte word from Washington giving him permission to go.

Meantime, Sidney Buchman has a story at Columbia for him. It is called "Concertina" and is based on an original by Lieut. John Huston and Fredrich Kohner.

Opening in 1840, it tells about one family and the part played by their men in the succession of wars. I thought at first it might be reminiscent of "This Land Is Bright," but apparently the only resemblance is it takes in three generations of a single family.

SID LUFT, reported engaged to Lynn Bari, is in Santa Monica Hospital badly burned. Young Luft, a test pilot at Douglas, was trying out a plane and something went wrong with the pipeline. He bailed out but not before his left arm, wrist and foot were burned. Fortunately, he had no marks on his face. Lynn Bari, who is in the East with Mrs. Mack Gordon, wanted to turn around and come back immediately but the boy, suffering as he managed to talk to her, told her to go on to the President's ball and to the opening of "China Girl." He had expected to join her in New York but will be in the hospital for some weeks.

THE VERY TRAGIC STORY of Mary Maguire, who was under contract to Warners and 20th Century-Fox as an actress for several years, has come to this desk. Mary went to England and married Capt. Robert Gordon-Canning, a titled Englishman. She was married in a wheel chair in 1939 while recovering from tuberculosis but when the war started her husband was interned because of his strong Fascist views. Then came the death of her 10-months-old baby and Mary collapsed. Report is she was so grief stricken at her accumulation of sorrows she nearly died. However, more recent word is that she is sufficiently recovered to make a picture.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Ann Edmonds, Warner actress, and her husband, Bill Herndon, writer, will be three come spring; Sergt. Gene Autry winged in over the week-end to talk over "This Is the Army" with Hal Wallis; Capt. John Detlie flew back to Seattle after hurrying here to be with Veronica Lake; The Norman Krasnas have adopted a little girl; Cobina Wright is spending every minute with Palmer Beaudette, who was graduated recently from Officers' Training School; Horace Heida is negotiating for his own night spot; Lupe Velez now crops up a golden redhead; Ann Sheridan has about an acre of land near Mexico City and plans to build there; Brian Donlevy has a four days' vacation clause in his contract so he can be with Marjorie when the baby arrives; Mimi Chandler on her way to Washington to visit her Senator Pappy, "Happy" Chandler; Richard Whorf is passing the shining hours while he recuperates by writing a short story; Kathryn Grayson and John Shelton, who battled continually when he was here, are getting along beautifully by the letter route. He is stationed in the East and she leaves soon to visit him. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Captured Flag To Spur Drive

Instead of flying over Henderson airfield on Guadalcanal as originally intended, a Japanese flag, captured by a Boston Marine hero, will spur Greater Boston War Fund workers in their coming campaign.

The trophy will be formally accepted by Charles C. Cabot, general chairman, at the annual rally for volunteer workers to be held Thursday night at the Boston Garden.

Capt. H. Fuller

Capt. Horace H. Fuller of Milton, now under treatment at Chelsea Naval Hospital for wounds suffered in the Guadalcanal fighting, captured the Jap battle flag in a fierce engagement last August, when 1500 of the enemy were slaughtered.

that men are hard put to tell the age of any of us. It used to be that a woman of 40 looked 40 and a girl of 15 looked 15. But those days are gone. Women of 40 look like kids and 15-year-olds look and behave like grown women. How are the men to tell the difference?"

Meanwhile Flynn continues to be almost mobbed by excited feminine admirers, some of whom insist that they want even a button from his coat and others of whom seek only his autograph.

PEGGY TO TAKE STAND

Pebby Satterlee was prepared to take the witness stand today, her testimony following that of two juvenile officers to be questioned on the count involving blonde Betty Hansen. Betty already has testified to an alleged attack on her by Flynn at a house party.

The prosecution phase of the hearing neared an end after a State demand for a mistrial was dropped yesterday by agreement of opposing counsel.

One of two women jurors accused by the State of expressing their attitudes toward the defendant was replaced by an alternate juror.

The juror excused was Miss Elaine Forbes, secretary to a radio network executive. Three women members of the jury panel declared in affidavits filed by the State in support of its mistrial motion that she had expressed a determination to get on the Flynn jury.

Two of them asserted Miss Forbes declared her purpose to acquit the defendant; the third charged she had said she would convict him.

The other woman juror named in one of the affidavits was permitted to remain in the case. She was Mrs. Lorene Boehm, who was quoted as having remarked before the start of the trial, "I am for Errol Flynn in a big way."

Gas Ration Rebel Faces Indictment

JEFFERSON, Ia., Jan. 19 (AP)—"No gas, no telephone service."

"Daubendiek is charged with interfering with the operations of his telephone exchange after the local rationing board declined to grant him auxiliary gas rations for his car pending his compliance with technical requirements," County Atty. Hanson said.

officers and Edward C. Drinkwater, clerk of the Cranston District Court, a family friend, went to the five-room cottage at Foster, 15 miles southwest of here.

HANDBAG ON SHELF

Mrs. Lecesse unlocked the cottage door and, first across the threshold, discovered the bludgeoned body of her daughter, with the head blood-covered. Her hat and handbag were on a shelf in the kitchen.

According to police, the interior of the cottage showed signs of a desperate struggle.

The murdered woman, according to her mother, was born in Italy on Jan. 2, 1900, but was brought to this country when two years old by her mother and father, the late Dr. Antonio Lecesse. There are three other daughters and two sons in the household.

Smith, according to police, has been living since the separation with his mother in Harvard ave., not far from where his wife and mother-in-law resided.

The couple, authorities said, were married in September, 1911, and though separated had continued to see each other at frequent intervals.

FATHER IS JUDGE

Police said that Smith came from Chicago, where his father was a judge. He at one time used the name Thomas Steffin, they said.

They said acquaintances described him as greatly upset because his wife left him.

The battered body of Mrs. Smith was propped up with cushions under the head and shoulders. At the table opposite the body a set up for one had been laid from which a meal had been eaten.

A farmer located several hundred yards from the Smith's cottage said Smith had called him Saturday and Sunday nights to inquire if his wife had been at the cottage.

BOSTON SOCIALITE BLENDS WAVES DUTY, 'K. P.' CHORES

By BETTY ALDEN

ISABEL PORTER is doing a man-sized job in Washington, but she still manages to practise the feminine attributes of cooking and housekeeping.

Lieut. (j. g.) Porter as she is officially known is holding down a responsible job in the WAVES, and has been assigned to the Bureau of Ships. After batting around from pillar to post trying to find a place to live in the capital she finally found a house "Y." She's been chief cook and bottle washer in the Spring Valley house but from now on her domestic chores will be lighter for the girls have a part time maid coming to help with the marketing, cleaning and cooking the dinners.

They only have four dining room chairs so when their dates come for dinner they have to pull up the piano bench and a couple of kitchen chairs. "Otherwise the house is so grand we feel like Cinderella," Isabel told us Sunday when she was home for a 24-hour visit with her mother, Mrs. Charles Allen Porter of Beacon st.

She is on an inspection tour of bases where some of her sister WAVES are located. Friday night when her mother learned she was coming she called up all her daughter's sailing and college friends and invited them for cocktails Sunday afternoon. The fact that every single one accepted and came long distances via subway and buses to see her again is ample proof of the popularity of this attractive Boston society girl.

Being in the WAVES is a natural for her. She has owned and sailed her own boats for a number of years and as proof of her seamanship is the only woman entitled to fly the burgee of the American Cruising Club.

HUGE SUPPLY OF FISH MAKES UP FOR LACK OF RED MEAT

By PAULINE WARREN

There is an abundance of fresh and frozen fish on the market to make up for the scarcity of fresh red meat. Steaks, roasts and chops are practically impossible to find but there are some good substitutes in such things as tender fish fillets, scallops, oysters, chicken and eggs.

The latter are still riding high in popularity since the break in price last week-end and many housewives are substituting omelets, souffles and creamed eggs for meat. At the help-yourself chains, big, strictly-fresh eggs from local farms are selling at 51c a dozen. At other chain stores the price hovers around 55c a dozen.

More chickens are being eaten around New England than ever before and the price on roasters (43c a pound) and fowl (39c a pound) remains about the same.

Within the next week there may be a slight increase in butter coming from Wisconsin and Minnesota, but it will hardly be felt as everybody is so short. It will be two full months before the Middle Western and Southern States pick up enough to send increased supplies.

The housewife is turning more and more to such spreads as peanut butter and honey.

Jumbo Virginia peanuts sell at 25c a pound, while Spanish peanuts are 23c. Peanut butter is still 27c a pound at the help-yourself chains. Honey, two pounds for 31c.

BEANS VICTORY SPECIAL

The Department of Agriculture has designated dry edible beans as a victory food special for this month, and they're selling as never before.

News for the housewife who may be worrying that the fish supply won't hold out against the demand is the fact that ready to be released on the market are nine million pounds of whiting stored right here in New England. Whiting is a lean, small white-fleshed fish caught in the North Atlantic. It is sweet-meated.

The following prices are the prevailing ones at the big markets for today and tomorrow.

FRUITS—Florida Oranges, 2 doz. for 35c; Grapefruits, from 5c each to 3 for 15c; Apples—cooking, 5 pounds for 25c; McIntosh, 4 pounds for 25c; Tangerines, 15 to 20c a doz.; Grapes, 2 pounds for 29c; Lemons, 37c a doz.; Limes, 30 and 33c a doz.; Strawberries, 35c a pint.

DRY BEANS—California Pea Beans, 10c a pound; Michigan or New York State Pea Beans, 9c a pound; Yellow Eye Beans, 12c a pound; Red Kidney Beans (for Chiles and Baking), 9c a pound; Dried Lima Beans, 13c a pound.

FISH—Frozen Mackerel, 12c a pound; Flounder and Haddock Fillets, 35c a pound; Mackerel, 23c a pound; Fresh Bluefish (downtown markets only), 35c a pound; Fresh Cod Steak, 45c a pound; Oysters, 60c a pint and 60c a doz.; Fresh Haddock, 25c a pound; Fresh Large Smelts, 49c a pound; Sea Scallops, 69c a pound, and Fresh Shrimp, 55c a pound.

VEGETABLES — California Carrots, 2 bunches for 15c; Radishes, 2 bunches for 15c; Beets, 2 bunches for 15c; Hubbard Squash, 2 pounds for 9c; Spinach, 2 pounds for 25c; Parsnips, 2 pounds for 15c; Yellow Turnips, 2 pounds for 15c; Purple Top Turnips, 5c a pound; Cabbage, 4 and 7c (for new) a pound; Kale, 2 pounds for 19c; Green Beans, 19c a pound; Wax Beans, 23c a pound; Yellow Onions, 3 pounds for 17c; Scallions, 2 bunches for 19c; Broccoli, 19c a pound; White Celery, 2 bunches for 29c; Pascal Celery, 25c a bunch; Mushrooms, 55c a pound, and Lettuce, from 5c a head for Native to 15c a head for Iceberg.

Joan Crawford's 'Reunion in France' at Loew's Thursday

Still another Joan Crawford will be seen in the new M-G-M picture, "Reunion in France," a story laid in Paris

JOHN WAYNE, JOAN CRAWFORD and PHILIP DORN
"Reunion in France"

during the Nazi invasion, which comes to Loew's State and Orpheum screens on Thursday.

In the new drama, Miss Crawford takes the part of a wealthy French woman who discovers she is reduced to poverty when the Germans take over her estate. She meets this situation by securing employment as a salesgirl in a shop she formerly patronized.

Appearing opposite the star are Philip Dorn, the eminent Dutch actor, who has risen swiftly since his arrival from Europe a few years ago, and John Wayne, long a favorite with motion picture audiences. Dorn, cast as a young Frenchman, is her sweetheart whom she rejects because of his seeming sympathy for, and collaboration with, France's conquerors. John Wayne is a young American member of the RAF, an escaped prisoner of war, seeking his way back to England and safety.

Authentic scenes of the flight from Paris by the stream of frightened refugees duplicate the darkest hours of the present world conflict.

In the large supporting cast are Albert Basserman, Ann Ayres, John Carradine, J. Edward Brombert and Reginald Owen.

The companion feature, "Eyes in the Night," stars Edward Arnold and Ann Harding. Featured players are Donna Reed, Allen Jenkins, Stanley Ridges and Friday, a German police dog.

Ellington's Gems Included

Most important new work of Duke Ellington to be played at his Symphony Hall concert on Thursday, Jan. 28, will be the tone poem titled "Black, Brown and Beige," which will run about 25 minutes and tell the story, in descriptive music, of the history of the American Negro from the landing of the first slave ship in the early 17th century. New York critics are already rating this composition above that of the late George Gershwin, "Rhapsody In Blue."

Also featured will be "American Lullaby," which was Duke's contribution to a series of musical Americana, published some time ago but never previously performed by the Ellington band, and "Bluebelles of Harlem" which features Duke himself at the piano and was originally written for Paul Whiteman's Carnegie Hall concert.

Several of Duke's famous musical pen pictures, such as his Victor-recorded "Portrait of Bert Williams" and "Bojangles" will be included in his forthcoming concert as will several of his top ranking hits as "In My Solitude," and a host of others.

Spy Thriller To Trans-Lux

Constance Bennett is said to have one of her happiest assignments in "Madame Spy," the new espionage meller opening tomorrow on Trans-Lux screen.

This most mercurial of the Bennett sisters has for her co-star Don Porter, the screen's newest recruit from Broadway. Others in the cast are John Litel, Edward S. Brophy, John Eldredte and Nana Bryant.

The plot is concerned with a bride deeply in love with her husband and unable to disclose to him that she is a Federal agent rounding up a nest of spies. The husband, go-getting newspaperman, is "on the story," and in the course of his gumshoeing discovers his bride to be mixed up in the filthy spy mess.

Roland Young Is Redeeming Quality in New 'Ask Sandy'

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Ask My Friend Sandy," the new comedy which brought screen-star Roland Young back very much alive to the footlights last night at the Plymouth after four years' absence, poses a question too many.

Its first act is a honey, Messrs. Young . . . (Stanley Young, no relation to the star, is the author). Its dialogue in that first act is as modern as the pay-as-you-earn income tax proposal. Its star, who has yanked many a so-so picture out of the red by the inescapable persuasiveness of his celluloid drolleries, is beautifully cast as the ennuied publisher who is easily parted from his money. Its incorrigible Private Sandy McFee, as Norman Lloyd plays him, is an engaging composite of those clear-eyed, certain young men in uniform who aren't going to be fooled again into a politicians' peace.

Roland Young

This is the promise when the curtain goes down on the first act and the lobby-hounds go dashing out for some air.

Sandy is badly let down by his creator in the second and third acts, and even all the bite of Roland Young's dry-sec wit, Norman Lloyd's quick-silver fascination and Mary Sargent's bright charm fail to camouflage the fact.

Along about 11:30 last night, despite a cast that is tops in the appeasement department, that playwright Young has a first-act but no play . . . and that screen star Young can blue-pencil the ex before stage star in future publicity releases.

He took the Plymouth first-nighters like the deathless General G. took Richmond . . . He even had the debs and the dowagers vieing with each other in exclaiming about his good looks.

'Follies' to Open Thursday Night

The new "Ziegfeld Follies," which is described as being in the old Ziegfeldian tradition of lavishness, is opening Thursday evening instead of Wednesday night.

Holders of Wednesday night tickets are advised that they are good Thursday night.

Coward Makes Destroyer 'Human' in Sea War Film

War films usually have some axe to grind. Either glamour or horror is laid on in thick coats so that the public will immediately turn violently militaristic or just as violently pacifist.

"In Which We Serve," the new United Artists release coming to Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters a week from Thursday, is a different sort of war film. The axe which author Noel Coward wants to grind is simply that the fight for freedom will go on on the high seas—that, though ships may be lost, men will build other ships in which to fight for their freedom.

And in this story of a destroyer he hasn't glamorized war out of proportion to its weariness and destruction and sorrow. Nor has he made his "star," the H. M. S. Torrin, a magic ship that bombs and torpedoes cannot penetrate.

The Torrin, a ship with a fine crew, is still vulnerable to the blows of the enemy and goes down off the Island of Crete. Just as "human" as is this destroyer are the men who serve on her. None of that conventional stuff of a captain, much bemedalled, barking stiff commands to his men who are mere puppets inhabiting a ship.

Instead Coward has given us blood and sweat and tears—the crew's prosaic joys and griefs, the momentary panic of one boy set against the bravery of many, the harsh realties of battle and sudden death. We see them laughing before battle, then clinging for life to a rubber raft while enemy planes machine-gun them from the skies.

"The Forest Rangers' Heads Met's Film Bill for Thursday

Paulette Goddard in Technicolor and the dryad version of a sarong is the news of "The Forest Rangers," Paramount's new rainbow-hued story of the tall timberlands. It is to have its local premiere on the Metropolitan's screen on Thursday.

On the same bill will be "Ice-Capades Revue," spectacular new musical-on-ice show featuring the Ice-Capades' skating cast with Jerry Colonna, Ellen Drew and Richard Denning.

Sharing the spotlight with La Goddard will be Fred MacMurray and Susan Hayward as well as a hit tune that long ago preceded "The Forest Rangers" here. Would you be knowing, as did the smart Quiz Kids the other night, that it is "Jingle, Jangle, Jingle" and that it was written especially for this outdoor adventure spectacle?

Names in the suporting cast include Lynne Overman, Albert Dekker, Eugene Pallette, Regis Toomey and Rod Cameron.

Aiding the mustachioed Colonna in his "Ice-Capades Revue" nonsense is Vera Vague. Skating stars Vera Hruba, Megan Taylor and Lois Dwershak are much in evidence.

I'll Find Peace

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Copyright, 1943, King Features Syndicate Inc. World Rights Reserved.

NEWSPAPER columns are pretty grim these days. Writing them is even grimmer. Life looks like the faded trash in the circus ring after the show has folded.

Everyone is shuffling around, but the eagerness has gone from their eyes.

They look as if they were under a perpetual dimout. Pretty soon you'll realize that you look like that, too.

So I've decided to do something about it. Don't know yet how I'm going to cram it into a busy day But somewhere in the 24 hours I'm going to make a new place in my program.

A little space apart, even if it's only 15 minutes.

And in that time I'm going to do something to and with myself.

I'M GOING TO RID MYSELF OF THAT DIMOUT LOOK.

What'll it be?

Don't know yet.

But it won't be war work.

It won't be something useful.

Except in a unique sense.

BUT IT WILL BE SOMETHING THAT WILL SWING ME RIGHT BACK INTO BALANCE.

I used to be gay. I laughed and played with a pup. I looked under the rocks for those tiny golden-backed ferns and scampering bugs.

I'm going to be gay again in that 15 minutes. I used to be reckless. Now and then I'd dawdle on the job—actually be lazy.

I really didn't believe in laziness. I've have one of those consciences that make you feel you must be hustling every minute.

I couldn't see any use in laziness, but I can see the use of it now. I can see the use of leisure now, too.

I'm going to be lazy again. I'm going to get rid of the tension that has held me like handcuffs. I'm going to day dream . . . remember the fun I had as a kid.

And if I don't do anything else I'm going to find beauty in that little space apart. Going to brood over some lovely p'cture—fill my eyes with its delight, or read a poem, dig out my old paint box, make a silly party dress for the little kid down the alley who has never had one.

But, most of all, I'm going to "feed my soul."

I'm going to read the 23rd Psalm again and let my troubled, tangled mind grow still—so still—until I hear His voice whispering through the dark.

What lovely words they were.

The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures:

He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Service Staff Writer

The Ruml tax plan has more fingerprints on it than the roller towel in a cafeteria.

First the Treasury made notes in the margin, then Congress turned it over and wrote a new plan on the back.

We are going to have pay-as-you-go, but any resemblance between the original and the fine print will be discovered as we go along.

Rumy offered a plan which was no more complicated than a pocket comb.

That was the first point against it.

Before opening the envelope the Treasury announced that it wouldn't do. Then, holding it upside down, the Treasury said it might do with some changes.

Ruml wanted to start collecting 1943's taxes in 1943.

The Treasury said it wouldn't forgive 1942's taxes. We can get tough, too. We can refuse to forgive the Treasury for '39, '40 and '41.

Thought for the day: Watch for pay-before-you-go.

Because of a fire in 200 tons of soft coal in the basement of the Peter Faneuil School on Joy st., which forced 30 pupils from a classroom, fire officials today ordered that no more than 15 tons of coal be stored in any school building.

The fire in the school coal pile gave off gas fumes which affected one classroom only.

JVA MEMBERS STEP UP PACE

Interest and activity in helping to win the war on the home front by children and youths of New England is becoming more and more evident.

Like our troops and Navy men in first line position they are anxious to "get on with the job."

This is shown as the volume of mail to JVA headquarters grows daily, with steady increase in membership.

Typical of reports is that of the new "Liberty" corps, commanded by Robert Harvey, Branch ave., Providence. Capt. Carl Tate says plans for a new scrap drive were drawn at the first meeting.

Angelo Villaci is a new member of the "Yankee" corps of Cumberland Center, Me., commanded by Marie Landry. A North Reading corps, commanded by James Tentindo, Gordon rd., plan's to visit Chelsea Naval Hospital to present gifts to the patients.

All members of the "Harbor Terrace" corps, Fall River, commanded by Thelma Arel, are to sell war stamps.

The "MacArthur Boys" corps of Somerville, commanded by George Carlino and captained by Harry Lowe, has gathered 700 bottle caps.

The "Victory Eagles," commanded by Barbara A. Lane, Putnam st., East Boston, and the "Victory" corps, commanded by Joan Samaha, Shawmut st., Boston, are specializing in first aid.

Murphy Buys Rock Stock

FORMER GOV. FRANCIS P. MURPHY of New Hampshire has purchased most of the stock that has been held by Sam Simon in Rockingham Park. Murphy has always been interested in sports, and he feels there is a good future for racing in New Hampshire.

EX-GOV. MURPHY

In recent years, the control of Rockingham Park has been in the hands of Lou Smith, Simon and a group of New York investors. Former Gov. Murphy now will take over most of Simon's stock. Sam will retain a small block of stock in the track, and he will continue to act as a trustee. Smith will also be a trustee. The third trustee will be the representative of the New Yorkers associated with Rockingham Park.

Lou Smith will continue to act as vice-president and general manager.

In a recent interview in New York, Smith stated that despite the new restrictions on the use of autos, Rockingham Park will attempt to operate this year. Lou feels that some of the restrictions may be lifted by the time Rockingham will open its Summer meeting.

Last Fall Rockingham Park conducted a successful meeting even though it did not have special trains to the track.

Buses and autos, however, were permitted to enter the track, while there was not any ban on holders of "A" cards driving to a race track.

Narragansett Park Decides It Will Open

NARRAGANSETT PARK has decided to stage its Spring meeting from April 10 through May 8 despite the ban on the use of autos to get to a race track. Originally Narragansett Park announced it would not open its meeting in April if the gas ban was not lifted. It now feels that racegoers will manage to get to the track by regular means of transportation and by walking.

Narragansett Park has a healthy cash balance in its treasury and it is prepared to accept a loss on its meeting if necessary.

Narragansett also announces it will hold a Summer meeting from Aug. 9 to Sept. 25. The Narragansett Park management is hopeful, Judge James E. Dooley says, that there will be more gas available later in the year, and that persons with "A" cards at least will be permitted to drive to the track. Judge Dooley emphasizes the fact that Narragansett Park is eager to see that all government regulations in regard to the use of autos and gas are lived up to.

If Narragansett Park, Suffolk Downs and Rockingham Park are able to carry through with their regular racing programs, it will give horsemen a chance to race their thoroughbreds. There will, of course, be reduced purses and other overhead.

It is expected that the average purse will be for $800. Some of the purse's for stakes will either be reduced or eliminated.

President Charles F. Adams of Suffolk Downs says that in the event changes are made in the method of taxing the mutuel handle that Suffolk Downs would probably call off the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap, $25,000 Yankee Stakes and the $10,000 Mayflower Stakes. Suffolk Downs has been fortunate to break even on the day of the Massachusetts Handicap and could not stand additional taxes based on increased mutuel take on such a day.

War Will Give Many New Problems to Racing

THE WAR WILL present many new problems to racing. The State governments are anxious to keep the sport going as it helps them solve some of their tax problems. The Federal government, however, has made it quite clear that it will not grant any special concessions to racing despite the large amount of taxes it pays to the government or as a result of the $2,000,000 it gave to war relief in 1942. The recent ban on the use of taxicabs to go to the races is in line with this policy.

Braves Release Cooney, Waner

Bob Quinn announced today that the Boston Braves have secured waivers on Johnny Cooney and Paul Waner and had granted both of them their unconditional release. Quinn said that at the end of the 1942 season they had been notified that they would not be retained and had been advised to look around and secure jobs for themselves.

Since the close of the season it is reported that Cooney has been offered a class AA league position which he turned down as he is dickering with a major league club. Nothing has been heard from Paul Waner, who is now also a free lance.

The passing of Cooney from the Alston park will be regretted by the fans, as his popularity appears to have increased with the years. Although time has taken its toll on Cooney, his willingness to play wherever asked his courage in the clutch and portsmanship have never been questioned.

Bruins Play Canadiens; Eager to Pile Up Big Lead

By BILL GRIMES

In their sixth game in 11 days, the Bruins will clash with Les Canadiens tonight at the Garden while seeking their fifth straight victory.

During the past 10 days, the Bruins have been gradually pulling away from the other contenders for N. H. L. honors. They started off with a thrilling 5 to 4 win over Toronto, shut out the Blackhawks and took both ends of a home-and-home series from Rangers.

The Rossmen are two and one-half games out in front of Detroit Red Wings who hold second place by a margin of one point over the Maple Leafs, but have played two more games than either team.

CANADIENS TOUGH

During the next three weeks, the Bruins will play 10 games. They cannot afford to ease up at any time, for from Feb. 9 until the close of the season, March 18, they have only nine games and in those five weeks, the Red Wings and Maple Leafs might wipe out their surplus of points.

The Flying Frenchmen have won more consistently of late than at any time this season. They have encountered only one setback in their last six starts and, moreover, they were the last club to take a fall out of the Rossmen.

The Bruins and Canadiens have played six games this season. And, despite the fact that the Frenchmen have been in the lower bracket since the campaign was a month old, the Bruins haven't been able to get better than any even break.

In all probability, Capt. "Dit" Clapper will not play tonight. He claims that he's feeling better but Manager Art Ross will not risk further injury to his star defenseman unless he's positively sure that Clapper is physically fit for action.

Bill Cowley went on a scoring spree during the Rangers' series and is now topping the league in that department. The star playmaker from Ottawa hopes to increase his lead by annexing a few more points tonight at the expense of the Flying Frenchmen.

The Canadiens arrived here today with their entire squad and two newcomers from the QSHL of Montreal, Johnny Mahaffy and Glenn Harmon. The QSHL is sponsored by the Montreal Forum and Mahaffy and Harmon after having played six games with the Canadiens will become full fledged pros after two more games.

THERE'S A BILL BINGHAM ON HARVARD'S TRACK TEAM

By HERB FINNEGAN

Harvard was running a special mile relay against Rhode Island State. Ted Young led off with a 53.2 leg. Little Wes Flint, the hurdler, followed with 51.8. Jim Wheeler, grandson of Ambassador Grew, turned in a 51.2, and Ted Withington loafed home with a goodly lead in 51.7. The time (3:27.9) was exceptionally good considering that the boys were just back from Christmas recess and Wheeler and Withington had just left sick beds.

"If Bill Bingham had been running today, every man would have been under 52," enthused one Harvard lad in the locker room.

Bill Bingham! Why, it's nearly 30 years since Bill ran his history-making duels with Ted Meredith and Johnny Overton. Why bring that up?

"He meant Bill Bingham, Jr.," Coach Jaako Mikkola hastened to explain. "Young Bill is a great quarter-miler but illness has held him back ever since he entered Harvard. He's just starting to get the feel of things now, and he's running well. But he's more interested in aviation than in track, and that's why he wasn't on hand for today's meet.

HE'LL BREAK .50

"We'll have a 3.21 (a record breaker) quartet if he's available for the Millrose games, Feb. 6," Mikkola added. "Withington did 50.4 against Yale freshmen last spring, and when he recovers fully from his recent indisposition he'll break .50 at Madison Square Garden. Wheeler had a temperature of 100 only a few days ago, and yet he did 51.2 today, and Young Bingham is as fast as any of them.

"I timed him in 50.9 on this very track a few days ago, running alone, you understand. He's got his father's competitive heart as well as his speed, so you can imagine how fast he'll be if he practices regularly and gets some real competition.

"Look here!" Mikkola exclaimed. He pored over his notebook and thumbed a notation which read: "Withington and Bingham—1:15."

"They had been out only a couple of days," said Mikkola enthusiastically. "I told them to do a fairly fast 600 with no sprint at the finish. 'Just break 1:20,' I said. So they would get a brisk workout. Well sir, they streaked around the track like Siamese twins, just as steady as a clock and breasted the tape together in 1:15. I couldn't believe the watch at first. Honestly, that's good for 1:12 on a fast track with a fast finish.

"I'll have a great mile relay at Millrose, if Bingham is available. But I'm afraid I'll be losing him. He's been offered an executive's job with a big air concern, and he may accept it any day.

LOST THRILL, NOW

"I was hoping," said the sentimental Jaako, "that he'd run just one great race before he leaves, and Millrose is his big chance. I had visions of him bettering his father's times in the spring but that can't be. He'll be gone, even though he's only a junior. But I want him to run at Millrose."

Few people, outside of official Harvard, knew Bill Bingham had a son there. Few in official Harvard knew the youngster was a potential track champion. How Bill, Sr., must have dreamed of the day when he would sit on the stadium slopes and thrill to the sight of his own boy breaking his own records. Instead, the senior Bingham is now a major in the Army, the son about to contribute his bit. War is upsetting at times.

SOLDIERS BOW TO N. E. TEAM

John Pretzie, Watertown, who is looking more and more like the best heavyweight this neighborhood has boasted since Jack Sharkey was giving 'em boxing lessons, added another kayo win to his sparkling record as the N. E. amateur team trounced the Texas Rangers from Camp Edwards before 4000 at the Arena.

Pretzie was sent in against Ireland-born Bill McGonigal, who gave away something in beef and strength to Pretzie, but not much in experience. McGonigal had won 20 straight. He fended Pretzie off with a flashy left hook and a none-too-powerful right until the third.

Then he missed blocking a violent left hook to the stomach. McGonigal went down. It was not long before Pretzie hit him so hard and so often that Referee Bradley stopped it.

The soldier array from the Cape camp won but one of the six tournament fights. The khaki-bathrobed Thurman Maxwell, light heavyweight, kayoed Leo Gunnari South Boston, in the first round He had the eyes of the critics popping with a swift assortment of lefts and rights.

Romeo Paris, Fitchburg, took an unpopular decision over Eddie Reed, Edwards, in the 135s. Had Reed won, and one Patrick McNamara, 160-pounder, come through, in addition to Thurman's victory, it might very well have been a deadlocked tournament.

McNamara, who went into the ring with his shoulder taped, dislocated the same department in the third round of his small riot with Louigi Grico, Revere, at a time when he was leading on points. The soldiers furnished plenty of sock against their more talented foes; but they had little luck.

J. CALLURA WINS TITLE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 19 (AP)—Jackie Callura, a wild-swinging little Canadian whose fighting style combines all the best features of a bull and a kangaroo, won the National Boxing Ass'n version of the world featherweight champion last night by outpointing Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson in 15 rounds in the Providence Arena.

A 5 to 4 underdog in the betting, the charging little clouter from Hamilton, Ontario, climbed all over Wilson from start to finish, and although punished considerably in the infighting, he slammed the Pittsburgh Negro with wild wallops that seemed to start in nearby Pawtucket.

Wilson was content to land about one-tenth of all the punches he let go.

Star Studded Card For Skates Derby

The greatest talent in the eight-year history of the Silver Skates Derby will highlight this great ice classic at the Boston Garden next Sunday afternoon.

Adele Inge, Edi Scholdan, Janie Weiss, Sandylee Weille and Ted Meza will be the headliners in specialties which are certain to give the thousands of spectators an afternoon of unsurpassed entertainment.

Then add more than 400 speed skaters for a series of title races which always produce thrills and plenty of laughs and you have the Derby in nutshell.

Everything will be capably taken care of. Karl Rhode, who has had charge of the music ever since the Derby came into the Garden seven years ago, will again have his ice show band on hand.

TED MEZA IN SHOW

Billy Mullin, head of recreation for the City of Boston, will be back at the "Mike" directing activities, and he will have over 20 of his instructors on hand to keep the events moving right along.

Ben Levias, chairman of the Silver Skates Derby, has completed his program and has everything lined up for Sunday. The final addition was Ted Meza, king of skating comedians. Meza, who starred on Broadway in many musical comedies as an eccentric dancer and comic, turned his talents to skating a few years ago and developed his stage routines on the blades. The results have been terrific.

STARS IN OWN SHOW

He is easily the greatest comic the Derby has ever had and the committee had to spend weeks in trying to get him to re-arrange his schedule and come on to Boston.

The path has finally been cleared and the fans at the Garden Sunday are really due for a treat.

Meza has been in demand all over the country. Every big ice show has tried to sign him but Ted has been starring and directing an ice show of his own which has been a great hit through the South and mid-West.

He will leave his show for the week-end and come on to Boston.

Ted is really worth seeing.

Pro Football Accepts Challenge to Continue

By ELMER LAYDEN
(Commissioner, Professional Football)

CHICAGO, Jan. 19 (AP)—The National Football League looks forward confidently to the 1943 season. Continuing operations will involve obstacles, but the growing importance of football amounts almost to a mandate that these obstacles be overcome. The outlook is challenging. And the National League accepts the challenge.

The 1942 season, despite the loss of 311 players, coaches, owners and club officials to the armed service, developed competition as keen as that of any season in the league's history. There is no reason to believe that competition will be anything but more keen in subsequent championship races, although there may not be as many great name players immediately available.

National League attendance held up remarkably well, indicating once again that football fans go first for the competition and secondly to watch individuals. It is this fact which indicates the league's operations next fall will terminate successfully.

While it is foolhardy to presume that sports, or any other business, can operate on a "business as usual" policy in these war times, it is even more foolhardy to consider curtailment or abandonment of football.

The first year of the war has established football as one of the most important games in world sports. Since Pearl Harbor, the public has come to realize that football has many attributes which far transcend the purely entertainment values of the sport.

The emphasis placed on football in the Navy's pre-flight training courses and the demands made on the Office of War Information by troops abroad for sports news speak more eloquently for the continuance of football than any arguments yet presented by the game's millions of enthusiasts. It is this emphasis and these demands which make the National League more determined than ever to bend its future policies to the times and continue.

HEADMASTERS' BAN HIT BY NEWTONITE

By MIKE GILLOOLY

A Newton taxpayer, utterly unconcerned insofar as the rulings of the Headmasters' Ass'n touch his local beneficiary, would like to step up to the plate to take a few swings at the pitchings of that independent body which has ruled that nine Bay State high schools cannot compete in the biggest sporting events of the scholastic schedules.

Realizing, that at a very minimum, the headmasters will prevent 800 boys from competing for what amounts to the most important stakes in their athletic careers, it is only fitting that schoolboy fans should be allowed to voice their opinions on the workings of that body of school educators who dictate the athletic policy of boys within their jurisdiction.

MUST BE SOME OTHER WAY

This particular letter, from J. P. Owens of Newton, is a letter of indignation. And it is rightfully so.

For when schoolboy followers—and close to 300,000 sit in for Thanksgiving Day football games—realize that these boys are being deprived privileges simply because their school boards declared that they must play football on Sundays, there should be some easy way for the fans to demand justice for the "outlaws."

SHOULD BE INVITED

It's less than a month to the State Track Meet, and if 2000 Lynn fans can petition for Sunday football surely this figure can be duplicated nine times over for invitations for these nine schools as a demand that these boys be INVITED, as are the Boston and Worcester schools, to this biggest schoolboy track and field tourney of the entire indoor season.

Here are Mr. Owens' views on the subject:

208 Center st.
Newton, Mass.

Dear Mr. Gillooly:

I read with no little interest your article in the Boston American captioned "Why Penalize Boys for School Policy?" I was particularly interested in your reference to the State Track Meet to be held at the Garden, Saturday afternoon, Feb. 13, and where you bring out the fact that the boys in the Boston schools and also in the Worcester schools are eligible to run in this meet when they are 19 years of age, whereas boys in schools that are under the Headmasters' rulings are denied this healthy competition if they are over 18.

I know of a boy who is an outstanding runner but who will be denied the privilege of running because his high school is subject to the Headmasters Ass'n rules and he will be 19 on Feb. 10.

Personally, I seriously doubt the legal right of the Headmasters' Ass'n to deny any boy in any high school in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts the right to compete in athletic competition because of age limitation, provided of course he mets scholastic requirements.

It might be well for the members of the Headmasters' Ass'n to acquaint themselves with the fact that our country is at war and boys of 18 and 19 years of age are now subject to the draft. Why deny boys who have reached the age of 19 by a week, or two, or a month or two for that matter, the thrill they get out of a foot race, a baseball game or a football contest when such endeavor is conducive to physical and mental development and which would serve them well, and incidentally their country, when they reach the armed forces of our nation.

The boys in this class may not be with us long and why not give them the full benefit of our school resources before they leave?

It would be appreciated if you would make an issue of this subject in the columns of the Boston American. It is through you and your fellow newspapermen that this condition can be corrected.

Yours very truly,
J. P. OWENS.

WRIGHT READY FOR BARTOLO

Sal Bartolo, East Boston's pride and joy, realizes more than ever that Chalky Wright, former featherweight champion from California, will be tough to beat when the pair tangle in the main bout, scheduled for 10 rounds, at the Boston Arena, Friday night.

Sal Bartolo

The battle for the No. 1 contender's berth for the title will headline a program of 38 rounds to be presented as the second fistic festival of the Goodwin A. C. this year.

Bartolo saw Wright register a one-sided victory over Joey Peralta, Pennsylvania, last Friday night in New York, and the Noddle Islander is convinced that the former champion is at top form.

Wright entered the tussle with Peralta on the short end of the 4 to 1 betting. But he soon proved that the dopesters had it all wrong as he proceeded to win just about as he pleased. Wright is shooting for a return match with champion Willie Pep of Hartford, and he'll be assured of this fight if he can hurdle that stubborn obstacle, Bartolo, in the Hub ring Friday night.

Conzelman Turns Pacificator

The Great Pacificator!

That's Jimmie Conzelman, coach of the Chicago Football Cardinals, Master of Science from Dayton University and raconteur par excellence.

It was just a year ago that the svelte Conzelman paid his own expenses from Chicago to riot the guests at the Baseball Writers' Dinner here. His "blocking was optional" story of the Washington University's football team tickled the risibilities of Pat O'Brien, Lou Holtz and other gifted post-prandial speakers.

Conzelman is a giant of a man. Six feet tall but so broad he looks like Mr. Five-By-Five. His leonine mane puts that of Judge Landis to shame. Appearance of a great tragedian and the wit of a great comedian. A sterling phrase-maker, so much so that Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas not only complimented him on his "humorous and free from smut" speech but insisted he come over to the judicial chambers and greet him.

AWARDED MASTER'S DEGREE

Conzelman's commencement speech at University of Dayton last June was such a masterpiece it was printed in seven languages and sent to every member of the United Nations. It was entitled "The Young Man's Mental and Physical Approach to War." Because of it, Dayton is awarding him a Master of Science degree which he will receive in April. ("And I'm spending my small life savings to toss a party for all you fellows who have been decent to me.")

JIMMIE CONZELMAN

It's not hard to be decent to Jimmy. A striking figure of a man, who educated himself by "memorizing the dictionary," a grand piano player to top it all, he's a vaudeville team in himself.

GOOD SALESMAN

He came to Boston this trip to "attend the Boston Baseball Writers' dinner" which isn't being held, but also to act as a go-between with the labor men and the striking teamsters.

Said Jack Sullivan of South Boston, president of Local 25. "I talked for an hour to my men and couldn't get to first base. Conzelman, whom they never saw before, got them in line in 10 minutes. Give the guy a big boost. He's got everything."

We knew it long ago, Jack. In fact, baseball men are pushing him for Judge Landis' job.

Original Angel Tackles Danno

Promoter Paul Bowser, making his annual contribution, will turn over a portion of the gross receipts to the Infantile Paralysis Fund.

As an added attraction, Corp. Joe Cox, now on a leave of absence from the Army, will return to the local grappling wars, tackling Leo Numa in a special bout. Other matches on the supporting card will find Dr. John "Drop-Kick" Murphy, Malden osteopath, battling Jack Cistoldi; Slidin' Bill Hansen meeting George Macricostas and Les Ryan trading holds with Jack Marshall.

SHORE'S FIND JOINS PICS; ROVERS HERE ON WEEK-END

Four days of hard practice lies ahead of Hago Harrington's Boston Olympics before meeting their bitterest rivals of the Eastern Amateur League, the New York Rovers, at Boston Garden next Saturday and Sunday evenings, Jan. 23 and 24.

A new defenseman, Ernie Nichols, will make his first appearance under Olympics colors on Saturday evening. Nichols has been sent on to Boston through the recommendation of none other than Eddie Shore, who should know a hockey player when he sees one.

According to Shore, this boy Nichols has definite big league ability and should prove to be a reliable relief for the two veterans, Ty Andersen and Red Anderson, who until now have had to carry most of the defensive burden without too much assistance.

Nichols is an American born boy and he hails from Calumet, Michigan. He is 21 years old, ruggedly built, weighing 180 pounds and he possesses plenty of ability in "handing it out." The latter attribute should make him very popular with the Boston fans.

Nichols is expected in town today, thereby giving him the opportunity to work out with the Pics for four days before making his debut on Boston ice, Saturday evening.

$75,000 Derby Pot Sure Says Winn

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, Jan. 18 (INS)—War, rationing and the gloomy threat of horsemeat and scrambled eggs replacing hamandeggs isn't frightening Matt Winn, octogenarian promoter of America's gaudiest and best-loved race, the Kentucky Derby.

The Bourbon-drinking old sportsman announces here and now that he is going through with plans to hold the 69th running of his classic—he saw the first one in 1875 from a neighboring treetop and has promoted the last 40 of them—on May 1.

WONT CUT VALUE

Not only that, but he won't reduce its value, as the Wideners reduced the value of the now extinct Widener Handicap. The Derby of 1943 will again be a $75,000 race, as it has been since 1940.

Old Matt says, through the medium of his publicity man, that he doesn't expect the race to attract nearly as many persons as it has in past years, "when attendance estimates ranged between 80,000 and 100,000.

He expects that the crowd this year will be made up chiefly of bettors from Louisville proper and the neighboring horse counties. The home breds were there in previous years, of course, but they were inundated by the flood of carnival visitors from practically every state in the union (and in many states of repair).

We've needled the elderly colonel a few times in the past for harboring the heart of a small loan banker beneath his rubicund rind. But there's no doubting his sincerity when he says, "The Derby has never lapsed; it has been running annually for 68 years and my fondest hope is that nothing will interrupt it. I am eager that the Derby continue as an annual race so long as I live . . . It has been run year after year despite wars, depressions and catastrophies of different kind. It was endured and become steeped in tradition, where other races either have been abandoned, or slipped into certain obscurity."

CHOICE PICKINGS

Winn has some choice pickings for his 1943 gallop, if horse vans don't come under the pleasure driving ban. Count Fleet, for example, holder of the new world's 2-year-old record for the mile, and Occupation, winner of the Belmont Futurity; the filly Askmenow and a few others.

Matt's concern over the dizzy drop in the size of the crowd might be settled, of course, by announcing for the first time the actual attendance at the race. The 80,000, 90,000 and 100,000 figures have always been guesses for, like the Indianapolis speedway race, the boys in the press coops were never supplied anything in the way of attendance figures except an "estimate"—estimated by press agents who weren't exactly out to make their tub-thumping look bad.

But it's good to have the classic canter going on as scheduled, and Matt still around to play host and murmur, "Tsk, tsk," when the boys from the poorer papers griped because the Louisville hotels wanted and got $20 a night for linen closets. He's an institution in American sports and so is the Derby, on which more money probably is bet than on the world series and any other big race combined. The war measures that keep the stews out of Louisville on May 1 may have a healthy effect on the Derby, for it promises to become again what the frill-ignoring hardboot country always thought it was: A dam' fine hoss race for the spring.

GANSETT ASKS FOR 67 DAYS OF RACING

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Jan. 19—Judge James E. Dooley, president and executive head of Narragansett Racing Ass'n, Inc., has filed an application for racing dates in 1943 with John E. Martin, racing administrator of Rhode Island.

The application requests dates for two meetings, April 10 to May 8, 25 days, and Aug. 9 to Sept. 25, 42 days.

Simultaneously, Judge Dooley authorized the following statement, which clearly outlines the track's policy and thus sets at rest any doubts or confusion existing among horsemen and the general public, as to the course it will pursue in this year of 1943.

FOLLOWS USUAL CUSTOM

"In applying for racing dates in 1943," said Judge Dooley, "the Narragansett Racing Ass'n is following its usual custom of requesting dates for both a spring and summer meeting. In making this application our association has in mind the effect upon racing that a continuance of the present stringent transportation restrictions would have. We are permitting ourselves to hope that the present gasoline restrictions may be modified before the time comes for the opening of the spring meeting.

OBLIGATIONS

"Should however, the present restrictions still be in force, we believe it will be possible, by careful management, to operate the spring meeting and either break even financially or sustain a reasonable loss.

"Our Association has definite obligations to the federal government, to the State, the horsemen, to the war agencies and other charities, and to the public.
